FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

RCG adds technical due diligence specialist Luke Boyden to Vancouver team

Vancouver, Canada – Wednesday, 4th November – The Renewables Consulting Group (RCG), a sector specialist advisory firm, today announced the appointment of technical due diligence specialist Luke Boyden to its growing Vancouver office.

North American solar installations have increased dramatically over the last few years. RCG has increased its team in response. Boyden brings a wealth of technical due diligence and project management experience. He has previously served as a technical advisor for developers, sponsors, and lenders on the acquisition, development, construction and operation of commercial and utility-scale solar PV plants and portfolios across the Americas.

Commenting on the news, Doug Pfeister, RCG's Managing Director, Americas said:

"We are delighted that Luke has joined our growing team. He has considerable development experience leading and supporting multiple complex technical due diligence assignments. His vast technical advisory experience with developers, sponsors, and lenders on the development, construction and operation of commercial and utility-scale solar PV plants will serve our clients well."

Remarking on his appointment, Boyden said:

"I'm excited to join the local team in Vancouver and the broader RCG group globally. I'm looking forward to supporting the recent regional wins such as BluEarth Renewables and growing the firm's development and due diligence solar services. The team is exceptionally well-placed to assist clients with a blend of market-leading expertise and practical support." – Luke Boyden, Vancouver.

The Vancouver office is leading the acceleration of the firm's due diligence platform and technical services in order to realise its overall goal of providing a top-tier market intelligence, management consulting, and technical advisory service to the renewable sector and delivering long-term value for clients.
